Master of Housing Policy and Management

房屋政策及管理碩士

A notable surge in demand for emerging professionals in housing, real estate, and facilities management has recently been observed across Hong Kong, China and the Greater Bay Area (GBA). This growing demand has, in part, been driven by recent legislation aimed at elevating professional standards across the industry. At the same time, it underscores the sector's enduring role as a catalyst for investment, urban development, and economic progress. In response, Master of Housing Policy and Management (MHPM) programme's vision includes cultivating a skilled talent pool equipped to meet these evolving strategic manpower needs.

In face of the affordability crisis in Hong Kong, as well as in other Asian cities like Shanghai and Seoul, people are looking for viable solutions. For this, students who are interested in housing policy need high-level training to analyse policy from different perspectives (e.g. social economic and environmental) and the knowledge and skills to inform decision making and advocacy. To that end, MHPM combines theories and practices and puts particular focus on the use of smart technology and data analytics to improve efficiency and performance. On the policy side, it will also cover the rise of social or third-sector housing in Hong Kong and elsewhere plus the challenges facing non-governmental organisations (NGOs) or social enterprises involved in running transitional housing.

In addition, quality housing management should not just focus on the provision of basic services, but on community development. Therefore, MHPM also teaches hands-on skills, for instance in mediation and public relations, through active engagement in real-life situations and learning from activities like role-plays.

近期中國香港和粵港澳大灣區（GBA）對房屋、房地產和設施管理領域人才需求急劇上升。此趨勢一方面源於相關立法的推動，以提升整體專業水平；另一方面，也反映了該產業作為投資、發展和經濟增長的重要引擎所發揮的關鍵作用。因此，房屋政策及管理碩士（MHPM）課程的核心願景之一，是培育能夠回應區域策略性需求的專業人才。

面對香港以及上海和首爾等亞洲城市面臨的住房負擔能力危機，社會各界正積極尋求具體且可持續的解決方案。為此，對住房政策感興趣的學生需要接受高水準的培訓，以便從不同角度（例如社會經濟和環境）分析政策，並掌握為決策和倡導提供資訊的知識和技能。為此，MHPM課程將理論與實踐結合，並特別注重運用智慧技術和數據分析來提高效率 and 績效。在政策層面，課程亦探討香港及其他地區社會住房或第三部門住房的興起，以及參與運營過渡性住房的非政府組織（NGO）或社會企業面臨的挑戰。

此外，優質的住房管理不應僅關注提供基本服務，還應關注社區發展。因此，MHPM課程亦著重培養實務技能，例如透過積極參與真實情境及角色扮演等活動，傳授調解與公共關係等領域的實務操作能力。

Master of Arts in Arts and Cultural Heritage Management

藝術與文化遺產管理文學碩士

Master of Arts in Arts and Cultural Heritage Management (ACHM) dual degree programme is one of the few Master's degree programmes in Hong Kong that combine research with practice in arts and cultural heritage management. Training in both fields will equip students with a range of essential skills for the fast-growing arts and cultural heritage sectors. Despite the massive demand, these sectors face a shortage of professionals who understand the interdisciplinary nature of both arts and cultural organisations and heritage assets.

Hong Kong, China is an ever-expanding urban region, which also has a strong awareness of the importance of its cultural heritage resources. It is also currently developing its arts and culture sectors, particularly through the West Kowloon Cultural District and M+ Museum. It thus provides a dynamic environment in which to study arts and cultural heritage management.

藝術與文化遺產管理文學碩士（ACHM）雙學位課程是香港少數將藝術與文化遺產管理研究與實踐相結合的碩士學位課程之一。這兩個領域的培訓將使學生掌握快速發展的藝術與文化遺產領域所需的一系列技能。儘管需求龐大，但這些領域仍然面臨著缺乏了解藝術文化機構和遺產資產跨學科性質的專業人士的困境。

中國香港是一個不斷發展的城市，同時也深入意識到其文化遺產資源的重要性。香港目前正在發展其藝術與文化產業，特別是透過西九文化區和M+博物館。因此，它為學習藝術與文化遺產管理提供了一個充滿活力的環境。
